This course is a State of California Commission On Teacher Credentialing licensing requirement.

This course is transferable to CSU.

CATALOG DESCRIPTION:

Examination of the development of social identities in diverse societies including theoretical and practical implications of oppression and privilege as they apply to young children, families, programs, classrooms and teaching. Various classroom strategies will be explored emphasizing culturally and linguistically appropriate anti-bias approaches supporting all children in becoming competent members of a diverse society. Course includes self examination and reflection on issues related to social identity, stereotypes and bias, social and educational access, media and schooling.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

- A. Understand the nature and processes of systemic and internalized privilege and oppression and their impacts on children's identity development and learning.
- B. Identify and assess the overt and covert ways in which stereotypes and prejudice are learned.
- C. Explore the unique and overlapping issues in racism, sexism, classism, heterosexism, ableism, and ethnocentrism as they relate to children and to early childhood settings.
- D. Explore and define issues of cultural identity including factors such as language, ethnicity, religion, immigration, and economic class - in relationship to children, families, and early childhood settings.
- E. Define and assess the impacts of factors such as language, ethnicity, religion, immigration, and economic class in the personal history of the student and the subsequent impact on teaching young children and families.
- F. Plan classroom environments, materials and approaches to effectively promote pride in one's own identity and delight and respect for social diversity.
- G. Demonstrate strategies for helping children negotiate and resolve conflicts caused by cultural, class and gender differences, with a focus on using anti-bias approaches in the classroom.
- H. Evaluate inclusive classroom environments, materials and approaches that are developmentally, culturally and linguistically appropriate to specific groups of children.
- I. Describe a variety of strategies for creating partnerships with parents through building mutual, collaborative relationships, and to challenge bias and injustice in the lives of their children.
- J. Review professional ethics and responsibilities and legal implications of bias, prejudice and/or exclusion.
- K. Identify teacher's roles and responsibilities in creating a more just world for every child.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

1. Analyze various aspects of children's experience as members of families targeted by social bias considering the significant role of education in reinforcing or contradicting such experiences.
2. Evaluate the impact of personal experiences and social identity on teaching effectiveness.

A. COURSE OUTLINE AND SCOPE

1. Outline of topics or content:

- The highly diverse world in which children now live
- Issues of inequity and access as they relate to young children in a world of diversity
- The nature of systemic and internalized oppression and privilege and the subsequent impacts on children's identity development and learning
- How children think: pre-prejudice, impacts of silence, overt and covert social messages
- Stereotypes, isms, bias, prejudice, fear, hatred
- Impact of privilege and oppression
- Differences between individual prejudice and the systems within a society that maintain unequal access based on race, gender, economic class, ability, sexual orientation, religious beliefs, culture, language and all isms
- Clarification of terms: Sex, gender, gender role, sexual orientation; racial, ethnic, cultural, national identity; nuclear family, blended family, single-parent family; trans-racial family, gay-lesbian family, extended family, adoptive family, foster family; etc.
- Identification of stereotypes and biased messages in the media and in the classroom and exploration of educational approaches that teach children how to challenge such messages and develop alternative behaviors

- Culturally and developmentally appropriate classrooms: curriculum, environment; human relationships
- Anti-bias approaches to all curriculum arenas, materials, activities, goals, assessment
- Environments and curriculums that reflect children's cultures and experiences and that expose children to the larger communities in which they live
- Environments and curriculum that challenge children's biases and support the acquisition of authentic information about human differences
- Effects of dominant culture holiday curriculums; examination of culturally and class embedded traditions of diverse groups
- Children's books and media to support identity development and anti-bias thinking and represent home language, culture and traditions, stories and songs
- Personal histories and experiences; internalized privilege and oppression; impacts on teaching identity, choices and teaching roles with children and families
- The teacher as model: self knowledge; recognition and respect for differences; responsive behaviors; acknowledgement and struggle with bias; change agent for and with children, families and colleagues
- Teachers and families: teacher responsibility to assess power dynamics; and commitment to co-creation of anti-bias approaches

B. FACE-TO-FACE COURSE SECTIONS:

Face-to-face education

Is a mode of delivery in which instruction is delivered in a traditional classroom setting, with instructor and students located simultaneously in the same classroom facility.

1. Describe the methods of instruction:

1. Lecture and visual aids
2. Discussion and problem-solving activities in class
3. Films and other audio-visual materials
4. Collaborative projects
5. Homework and extended projects
6. Field trips and projects at various school and educational programs
7. Guest speakers

2. Describe the methods of evaluating of student performance.

1. Performance on in class written assignments that test the student's ability to analyze as well as to synthesize child development theory and data
2. Performance on out of class writing assignments that test the ability of the student to assess and evaluate child development principles
3. Performance on the preparation and organization of ideas, theories and contexts of development that may include
 - a. Objective and essay examinations
 - b. Critiques of specific reading assignments
 - c. Oral analysis of textbook and supplemental reading assignments
4. Performance on field research projects
5. Performance on in-class group projects
6. Class attendance and participation

3. Describe how the confidentiality of the student's work and grades will be maintained.

Instructors shall make reasonable efforts to protect the confidentiality of students' grades and graded work consistent with practices described in the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

4. If the course has a lab component, describe how lab work is to be conducted and how student work is to be evaluated.

NOTE: Students will be encouraged by instructors of this course to direct themselves to the College's Disabled Students' Programs and Services (DSP&S) department if they believe they have a learning disability.

C. CORRESPONDENCE EDUCATION COURSE SECTIONS (Correspondence, hybrid correspondence)

Correspondence education is a mode of delivery in which instructional materials are delivered by mail, courier or electronic transmission to students who are separated from the instructor by distance. Contact between instructor and students is asynchronous.

Hybrid correspondence education is the combination of correspondence and face-to-face interaction between instructor and student.

1. Describe the methods of instruction.

Instructional materials, including readings, assignments, background materials, tests and quizzes may be delivered in traditional written form or posted to Palo Verde College's Bridge website for review by students. Instructors may also conduct discussion sessions with students in writing or via the Internet.

2. Describe the methods of evaluating student performance.

1. Performance on written assignments that test the student's ability to analyze as well as to synthesize child development theory and data
2. Performance on writing assignments that test the ability of the student to assess and evaluate child development principles
3. Performance on the preparation and organization of ideas, theories and contexts of development that may include
 - a. Objective and essay examinations
 - b. Critiques of specific reading assignments
 - c. Oral analysis of textbook and supplemental reading assignments
4. Performance on field research projects
5. Performance on group projects
6. Class participation in written form

3. Describe how regular, effective contact between the instructor and a student is maintained.

Regular, effective contact includes, but is not limited to, exams; quizzes; essays; research papers; graded homework assignments; syllabus receipt; office hours; instant messaging; and synchronous online discussions, e-mails, letters, notes, phone calls, or postings on the Bridge between instructor and student.

4. Describe procedures that help verify the individual submitting class work is the same individual enrolled in the course section.

Consistent with policy elements listed in the ACCJC's "Policy on Distance Education and on Correspondence Education," the College verifies the identity of a student who participates in class or coursework by using, at the College's discretion, such methods as a secure log-in and password, proctored examinations, or other technologies or practices that are developed and effective in verifying each student's identification.

5. Describe procedures that evaluate the readiness of a student to succeed in a correspondence or hybrid correspondence course section.

The procedure might consist of a short assessment questionnaire prepared by the instructor and self-administered by the student. The questionnaire would evaluate areas such as working independently, adhering to timelines, and familiarity with working online and with computer technology. The student would use the resulting score to evaluate his or her readiness to take the course in a correspondence or hybrid correspondence instructional mode.

6. Describe how the confidentiality of the student's work and grades will be maintained.

Instructors shall make reasonable efforts to protect the confidentiality of students' grades and graded work consistent with practices described in the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

7. If the course has a lab component, describe how lab work is to be conducted and how student work is to be evaluated.

8. If the course requires specialized equipment, including computer and computer software or other equipment, identify the equipment, and describe how it is to be accessed by students.

The students may use a computer with internet and e-mail and be able to access the college “bridge” to access assignments and tests or manually write assignments and tests on paper and return them to the instructor through the mail.

Note: Students will be encouraged by instructors of this course to direct themselves to the College’s Disabled Students’ Programs and Services (DSP&S) department if they believe they have a learning disability.

D. DISTANCE EDUCATION COURSE SECTIONS (online, ITV, hybrid)

Online education

is a mode of delivery in which all instruction occurs online via the Internet. Student and instructor access to email and the Internet is required. Students are required to complete class work using email, chat rooms, discussion boards and other instructional online venues.

Interactive television (ITV)

is a mode of synchronous delivery in which instruction occurs via interactive television (closed circuit).

Hybrid instruction is a combination of face-to-face instruction and online instruction.

1. Describe the methods of instruction.

Online education: Instructional materials, including readings, assignments, background materials, tests and quizzes are posted to Palo Verde College’s Bridge website for review by students. Instructors may also conduct discussion sessions with students via the Internet.

Hybrid: Combines online instruction with face-to-face instruction and may consist of a combination of Internet-based instruction and face-to-face instruction in a traditional classroom. Methods of instruction may include, but are not limited to lecture and visual aids, discussion and problem-solving activities, films and other audio-visual materials, collaborative projects, homework and extended projects, field trips and projects at various school and educational programs and guest speakers.

ITV: Instruction is conducted synchronously on closed-circuit television. Methods of instruction may include, but are not limited to lecture and visual aids, discussion and problem-solving activities, films and other audio-visual materials, collaborative projects, homework and extended projects, field trips and projects at various school and educational programs and guest speakers.

2. Describe the methods of evaluating of student performance.
