College Self-Assessment

Palo Verde College, established in 1947, is a small college with a diverse and complex student constituency. In addition to delivering instructional programs to students attending the Blythe main campus, the College provides instruction to students residing in Needles (100 miles north of Blythe), inmates incarcerated at two nearby state prison facilities, inmates located at thirteen other correctional facilities in California, students enrolled in noncredit programs in Blythe, and public safety personnel through instructional service agreements (ISAs), in Riverside and other locations in California.

Here follows our analysis of the ARCC-2011 performance indicators for Palo Verde College:

Table 1.1 Student Progress and Achievement Rate. We are concerned with this declining trend, and we are putting special emphasis in our strategic planning on promoting degree completion and transfer. The relatively low rate can be explained partly by the substantial number of ISA students who are seeking skill enhancement in their public safety jobs by taking individual courses with no plan for a degree or certificate.

Table 1.1a Percent of Students Who Earned at Least 30 Units. We are pleased with our highest-ever showing for this measure, which also places us above average in our peer group. The commitment of College personnel to seek ways to improve retention and persistence through implementation of the Enrollment Management Plan seems to be meeting with some success.

Table 1.2 Persistence Rate. This rate has shown some improvement in the 2008-09 cohort compared to the previous cohort; nonetheless, this indicator is an ongoing concern for us. The relatively low rate can be explained partly by the substantial number of ISA students who are seeking skill enhancement in their public safety jobs but do not intend to re-enroll or complete a certificate or degree.

Table 1.3 Annual Successful Course Completion Rate for Credit Vocational Courses. The rate has declined somewhat in recent cohorts, though it maintains an acceptable position in our peer group. We attribute this performance to the positive motivation among students—public safety personnel seeking career advancement and skills upgrade—enrolled in the College's programs through ISAs.

Table 1.4 Annual Successful Course Completion for Credit Basic Skills Courses. This rate has improved slightly over the last cohort but still remains on the low side for our peer group. We are addressing this chronically low rate through ongoing faculty assessments of placement methods, class scheduling practices, lab and lecture policies and grading procedures for basic skills classes.

Table 1.5 Credit Basic Skills Courses. This rate falls slightly below average in our peer group and has declined over the past few cohorts. When compared with the rate in Table 1.4 above, it seems that once students pass the first basic skills course, it is likely they will continue to be successful in subsequent courses in that discipline.
